So what can I say about Clive Brown? Firstly he likes good coffee, enjoys spending his time with his family and has a passion for France. Most importantly he is the most supportive and dedicated biology tutor I have ever met.

I first met Clive over 10 years ago as a failing A Level biology student, whose dreams of becoming an audiologist had been completely destroyed. My predicted A - level grades were not good enough to secure me a place in my chosen university.

From the first session with Clive I knew there was no messing around and he was there to make me achieve my goal of getting my grades for audiology. Despite my occasional strop and the regular use of the the words 'I can't do it', Clive continued to support, encourage and adapt his teaching skills to suit my way of learning.

Without Clive's help I know I would never have achieved my dream of obtaining the A- level grades required to attend Nottingham School of Audiology, achieving a 2:1 degree and now working in a job I love as a Chief Paediatric Audiologist.

I would highly recommend Clive to any student who needs additional support achieve their dreams, I am so thankful my parents found him.
